

Project Manager TODAY

Features List 2011

In 2011 we are planning a new look for Project Manager Today and a new schedule. The eight issues will continue providing material from popular and well-established contributors like internationally-renowned risk expert, Dr David Hillson; author and guru, Professor Eddie Obeng, and trainers Ben Johnson, Luciano Garagna, and Simon Harris.

January/February 2011

Editorial copy date: 4 January

Advertising copy date: 19 January

Training is often one of the first budgets to be cut in a downturn. But the ability to provide highly skilled staff doesn't go away. In the case of PM training any investment in staff continues to be vital if companies are to deliver products and projects. But how are leading trainers and professional bodies arguing their case for more investment by both organizations and individuals?

March

Editorial copy date: 7 February

Advertising copy date: 16 February

Universities are at the forefront of new ideas in PM. PMT will be looking at the latest research and innovation from leading Universities.

IT projects deliver business benefits and techniques developed for IT like Agile are creeping into the general business arena. With the BCS Project Management Group, Project Manager Today addresses some of the issues facing IT project managers in the current economic climate. Plus a preview of Project Challenge exhibition.

April/May

Editorial copy date: 4 April

Advertising copy date: 13 April

PMI's EMEA Global congress takes place this year in Dublin. PMT will be previewing the event and looking at the role that project management plays in the Irish economy.

PM maturity and competency: assessing companies and individuals is the first step to providing career paths for individuals and organizational effectiveness.

June

Editorial copy date: 2 May

Advertising copy date: 11 May

Large and complex projects need effective procurement and supply chain management for timely delivery of project resources. The challenge facing project and programme managers is to ensure that procurement doesn't produce unpleasant surprises.

July/August

Editorial copy date: 4 July

Advertising copy date: 13 July

International issue and Training Sourcebook. PMT will be looking at issues facing project managers with reports from the around the world. The Annual Training Sourcebook will feature the leading companies and the latest in technology to deliver training in the UK and internationally. (Data for the Sourcebook is collected online. Register before the editorial copy date for details.)

September

Editorial copy date: 8 August

Advertising copy date: 17 August

As the new academic year approaches what do universities offer aspiring project managers? PMT will be listing the courses and finding out what they have to offer from graduate degrees to Masters and MBAs. Plus Project Challenge Autumn preview.

October

Editorial copy date: 5 September

Advertising copy date: 14 September

From space and aerospace to car production the UK still has a thriving innovation and manufacturing sector. What are the PM challenges facing those involved.

Plus a preview of the PMI UK chapter's Synergy event.

November/December

Editorial copy date: 31 October

Advertising copy date: 9 November

The Annual Guide to PM and related Software together with comment and news from vendors and forecasters both at home and abroad. (Data for the sourcebook is collected online. Register before the editorial copy date for details.)

Editor: Ken Lane

klane@projectmanagertoday.co.uk
01189326665

Advertising manager: David Singh

david@projectmanagertoday.co.uk
02089799858

